5. Non-Complete Clause Rule

88 Fed. Reg. 3,482 (Jan. 19, 2023) (65 pages)

Comments due March 20

What Is a Non-Compete?

- Contractual term between employer and worker that typically blocks worker from working for a competing employer, or starting a competing business, within certain geographic area and period of tie after the worker's employment ends
  - Employer seeks non-competes to protect investment made in worker
    - E.g., practice employs doctor and pays salary while doctor builds practice, then doctor terminates employment and starts competing practice
- Distinguish from non-disclosure and non-solicitation agreements
  - Consulting firm hires consultant who builds relationships with firm’s clients, then consultant goes to work for competitor and tries to lure clients to new firm

Anti-Competitive

- “[R]esearch has shown the use of non-compete clauses by employers has negatively affected competition in labor markets, resulting in reduced wages for workers across the labor force—including workers not bound by non-compete clauses. This research has also shown that, by suppressing labor mobility, non-compete clauses have negatively affected competition in product and service markets in several ways.
- “[T]he existing legal frameworks governing non-compete clauses—formed decades ago, without the benefit of this evidence—allow serious anticompetitive harm to labor, product, and service markets to go unchecked.”

Proposed Rule

- Employer engages in “unfair method of competition” in violation of Section 5 of the FTC Act by –
  - entering into, or attempting to enter into, a non-compete clause with a worker
  - maintaining with a worker a non-compete clause
  - representing to a worker that the worker is subject to a non-compete clause where the employer has no good faith basis to believe that the worker is subject to an enforceable non-compete clause
- “Worker” includes employees, independent contractors, externs, interns, volunteers, apprentices, and sole proprietors providing a service to a client or a customer
- Effective date = 60 days following publication of Final Rule; compliance date = 120 days thereafter

Exception

- Non-compete included as part of sale of business entity or all/substantially all of business' operating assets, but only if person is "substantial" owner of, or "substantial" member or "substantial" partner in, business entity at time of non-compete
- "Substantial owner" = 25% or more ownership interest in the business
  - Those with ownership interest of less than 25% cannot be subject to non-compete associated with sale of business

Rescission

- Employer must rescind existing non-compete clauses (current AND former workers) no later than compliance date
  - actively inform workers their non-compete agreements no longer in effect and may not be enforced against them
  - provide notice in individualized communication
    - on paper or in a digitized format, e.g., email or text message
    - within 45 days of rescinding non-compete
- Safe Harbor: employer who provides notice to a worker as specified above complies with the rescission requirement

Model Language for Notice

A new rule enforced by the Federal Trade Commission makes it unlawful for us to maintain a non-compete clause in your employment contract. As of [Date 180 days after date of publication of final rule], the non-compete clause in your contract is no longer in effect. This means that once you stop working for [Employer name]:

- You may seek or accept a job with any company or any person – even if they compete with [Employer name];
- You may run your own business – even if it competes with [Employer name];
- You may compete with [Employer name] at any time following your employment with [Employer name].

The FTC's new rule does not affect any other terms of your employment contract. For more information about the rule, visit [link to final rule landing page].

Not-for-Profit Organizations

- The FTC Act limits FTC's jurisdiction to business entities organized to conduct business "for [their] own profit or that of its members."
- Not-for-profit organizations generally considered exempt from FTC Act
- Application to not-for-profit organization's for-profit affiliate or joint venture?

Request for Comment

- Should senior executives be exempt, or subject to rebuttable presumption instead of prohibition?
- Should low- and high-wage workers be treated differently?
- Should prohibition extend to non-competes between franchisees and franchisors?
- What tools other than non-competes might employer use to protect valuable investments and how sufficient are those alternatives?

Issues for Healthcare Providers

- Patient choice considerations with physician non-competes?
- Fair market valuation of compensation arrangement that included consideration of non-compete?
- Impact on future compensation arrangements (physician less valuable given ability to establish/join competing practice
- Limitations of sale-of-business exception – businesses with physician investors who each hold less than 25% interest

6. Safeguarding the Rights of Conscience as Protected By Federal Statute

88 Fed. Reg. 820 (Jan. 5, 2023) (11 pages)

Comments due March 6

Conscience Rights and Protections

- Several provisions of Federal law prohibit discrimination against health care providers who refuse to participate in services they find religiously or morally objectionable

  - 2011 Final Rule - Regulation for the Enforcement of Federal Health Care Provider Conscience Protection Laws
  - 2019 Final Rule - Protecting Statutory Conscience Rights in Health Care; Delegations of Authority

- Proposes to retain modified versions of 3 aspects of 2019 Rule
  1. Expand category of “federal health care provider conscience protection statutes” to include conscience protections embedded in wide range of HHS programs (e.g., Medicare and Medicaid statutes)
  2. Retain enforcement provisions related to complaint handling and investigations, such as:
     1. Expansion of 2011 Final Rule’s description of complaint handling and investigation; and
     2. OCR investigatory procedures
        - How OCR will proceed if an investigation reveals a violation of a federal health care provider conscience protection statute
        - Providing that OCR will seek voluntary resolution of violations and will inform relevant parties if it has found no violation.
  3. Voluntary notice provisions
        - Entities subject to federal health care provider statutes should inform the public about their rights and entity’s obligations under Federal conscience and nondiscrimination laws.
        - Posting of notice considered “best practice”
